

The Correction (The Western Awakening Trilogy)

By 2016, the United Kingdom is a ruined subsidiary of a bankrupt European Union. Every section of the British population despises and hates the nation's rulers. A group of entrepreneurs plans an insurrection. But how can a disarmed people beat heavily armed cops? And if they do that, how can they stop European Union forces reinstalling their hated rulers? And if they do regain their freedom, how can they govern themselves? The Correction is both a stand-alone novel and the second book of the Western Awakening Trilogy. Set in Israel, the United Kingdom, the United States, and continental Europe between 2002 and 2018, the Trilogy follows three families through the genesis of fusion power, the British and American revolutions, World War Three, and the formation of the new world order.
